People

This book is about what this author neutrally terms the ‘George Floyd Event’. It contains two distinct parts.

This introductory segment contains seven discussion sections that establishes this text’s objective and scope. It outlines tools available to critical thinkers and researchers that may enable us to draw better conclusions than the lies propagated by fake news such as CNN and Snopes. The final section tables dozens of critical questions in context.

Annex 1 bullet points seven questions that may arouse the curiosity of independent researchers. The core objective of this document seeks to guide novice media researchers towards the basic skills and primary evidence that leads humanity to draw well-informed, free-willed conclusions.

Analysis centers around the theme of numbers. Numerical inquiry allows us to objectively measure facts and fiction. Quantifiable information may be the key that unlocks the many enigmas that underpin the tragic George Floyd event.

This text is the final offering in this author's open-access (free) trilogy book series about the fate of George Floyd. RIP. You may access these free volumes via the website address shown below.

Some information listed and discussed in the these two books, above, do not repeat in this text.

In effect, they are assumed knowledge.

Questions

This book contains more questions than facts. Two reasons explain this. First, most persons who independently analyze the George Floyd event, in-depth, offer more questions to their audiences than firm answers. And rightly so. The George Floyd event is an enigma, among those of us who take zero to little notice of fake news fabricators like The New York Times and Snopes for dopes.

Dr Henry Makow is an example of a researcher who analyzes facts and disputed details about the George Floyd event. He has published several webpages online about this developing topic.

Makow, Henry, 1949-	An edition of selected unpublished essays and lectures by Frederick Philip Grove bearing on his theory of art / by Henry Makow. bac-lac.gc.ca/eng/services/theses/Pages/list.aspx?NW_S=makow	Thesis (Ph.D.)-- University of Toronto, 1982.	FACT CHECK

This book aims to empower readers to consult full primary data sets and draw valid conclusions from the widest body of evidence possible, rather than rely on just another know all 'expert' liar who tells them what to think and do. This is the second reason for this text's list of questions.

Uniformity

The basic narrative about the George Floyd event is largely consistent across the bulk of media that news consumers consult, such as mainstream news (e.g. Daily Mail) and press releases issued by relevant statutory authorities such as the Minnesota Police Department. George Floyd died on May 25, 2020 within meters of 3759 Chicago Avenue, Minneapolis Zip Code 55407. He died in handcuffs on the road while in the custody of the Minnesota Police Department (MPD).

According to official sources, an employee of Cup Foods called 911 to report their suspicion that George Floyd had committed a minor financial crime. I refer to this supporting image.

Caller: Um someone comes our store and give us fake bills and we realize it before he left the store, and we ran back outside, they was sitting on their car. We tell them

Which of the two images above (if any) is extracted from the official, original data source?

Can you detect the contradiction in detail in these two sources above?

Is this discrepancy a material matter that may grossly distorts most readers' view of events?

Absence

Hundreds of social commentators emphasize the lack of evidence that may explain key facts about the George Floyd event. I place these commentaries into two categories. The first is hard evidence that is critical to obtaining a full understanding. The apparent absence of footage that shows George Floyd exiting the police vehicle on Chicago Street is the dominant critique. This writer has seen this comment published by more than 30 content creators and by more than 100 commentators who review this content. I cite this video footage and comment as an example.

so how did he get from the police car to the street with the cop's knee on his neck?

The second type of comment speculates over hypothetical 'what if' and 'why did he/they' unknown factors. Numerous independent researchers question why George Floyd and his associates sat in their car for about 10 minutes after they were challenged by Cup Foods employees for allegations of fraud. This confrontation transpired across the road from this store.

Floyd then walked across the road to his car, where he sat calmly until the police arrived...

northerntruthseeker.blogspot.com/2020/06/the-murder-of-george-floyd-was-set-up.html

Most of these discussions covertly or overtly state that these observations are strong anecdotal evidence that there is something suspicious about this case. I.e., it may be a staged false flag. The adjective 'set up' in this illustration example above is an example of a covert allegation. George's two accomplices are the only people who can offer a direct account in response to this question.

Debunked

In a similar vein to the issues raised on the prior page, hundreds of public commentators pose loose, illogical arguments as so-called evidence that the George Floyd event is obviously a false flag fake that uses rehearsal scripts and crisis actors. The two examples in this subsection are distinguishable. The first type of arguments are citations of weak circumstantial evidence that can be dismissed without the need to scrutinize primary source evidence such as witnesses.

Numerous commentators (100+) claim it is suspicious that none of Derek Chauvin's neighbors knew that he was a police officer. This apparently is partial evidence that Derek Chauvin, or the person assuming that true/fake identity, is obviously a false flag crisis actor. I cite this example:

Floyd murder staged false event

 tapnewswire.com/2020/06/floyd-stages-false-event/

"A video shows Floyd removed from his car by police. He looks unstable and intoxicated, or perhaps handicapped. Initially, he appears to be uncooperative, but then stops resisting and is compliant. The Daily Mail talked with Chauvin's neighbors. The neighbors states, "We had no idea he was a cop. We thought he was a realtor."

This logic is flawed. Numerous legitimate scenarios may explain why Chauvin's neighbors thought he was a realtor. It is common for police officers to not reveal their profession to neighbors and loose associates as many are hostile towards this profession. It may also endanger a police officer's family and those who they live with if others know of their profession. Many police officers hide their uniform in a zipped sports bag, place it in the trunk of their car and change at work. Neighbors may have incorrect memory recall, or they may be crisis actors. And so on.

The second type of evidence that I debunk are popular folk lore facts that are blatantly incorrect. Those who spread or passively believe such claims have probably not referred to public access primary evidence. A popular myth is that the paramedics who attended to George Floyd are false flag crisis actors as they are wearing brown police uniforms and weapon proof vests. I cite this example, where Gita Smith (2020) corrects a video titled “Think You See it All” (Beckford, 2020).

The narrator's claim that the men in beige shirts placing Floyd on the gurney and into the ambulance are police officers is wrong. Hennepin Emergency Management Services spokeswoman Carolyn Marinar told Lead Stories, "The beige and brown uniforms worn by those who placed George Floyd in the ambulance DO represent Hennepin EMS paramedics," and not police. The narrator concluded the men were police officers because he saw protective vests. It is more and more the norm for EMS personnel to wear tactical vests in a high-risk situation. EMS crews need protection while they go about the job of saving lives, and with stabbings of EMTs on the rise inside ambulances, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, among other cities, implemented wearing of vests for its first responders in 2018.

Paramedics shown in George Floyd event videos are wearing uniforms similar as those shown above. This fact does not automatically prove that these medics were or were not crisis actors.

Research

This summary table may aid readers to objectively question all media and data sources.

Data principle		Explanation and example
1.	Bias	Sources that are known or suspected to be influenced by a conflict-of-interest should be ignored or analyzed with extreme caution. Example: A preliminary coroner (autopsy) report, commissioned by the County Sheriff, exonerates police officers accused of killing a suspect in police custody. Free thinkers should aim to acquire a copy of an independent autopsy report, if one is available. They should compare the results and aim to justify discrepancies.
2.	Errors (accidental)	Data sources that are influenced by factual errors in content and opinions should be ignored or analyzed with extreme caution. Example: Freelance video makers who report the George Floyd case mistakenly claim that “police arrived on the scene in just two minutes, which is suspicious”. Free thinkers should consult a range of primary sources to quantify the accuracy of the true response time. The 911 transcript and video footage are useful sources.
3.	Falsities (deliberate)	Data sources that are influenced by incorrect/fake content and opinions should be ignored or analyzed with extreme caution. A researcher issues a notice declaring that some material they presented about the George Floyd event are fake and motivated by a desire to vilify police officers. Free thinkers should consider the net benefits that may be gained from ignoring all advice offered by that speaker. If a person admits to deceitful practices it may be difficult to know what statements they made are true or false.
4.	Misleading	Data sources that are influenced by misleading content should be ignored or analyzed with extreme caution. Example: A County Sheriff who discusses an autopsy report repeatedly highlights the presence of multiple illegal narcotics in the toxicology analysis. She brings this issue to the forefront of her press conference. The primary cause of death – human intervention, is mentioned once, in a low voice tone, deep into the conference. Free thinkers should consult the original source – the autopsy report, and freely determine which factors they think hold more weight in the context of the core research issues that they aim to analyze.

Investigation

I draw your attention to a 23-pages report coordinated by Winnie Heartstrong PhD as her rapid response urgent project in June 2020. This report published by a distinguished scholar boldly explores several yet to be officially proven theories that depart from narratives propagated by Minneapolis State and County authorities and corporate news. Her visionary approach makes explicit accusations. Winnie's direct tone contrasts to this book's cautious 'ask questions' style.

Numerous commentators claim that Officers Chauvin and Tou Thao are not wearing the same Minneapolis Police Department shield. Images below offer preliminary evidence. You may obtain a better resolution by analyzing video footage online. Another claim is that Thao's badge appears to be painted onto his uniform via Computer Generated Imagery. Please check the video footage direct to form your own opinion. Chauvin's police shield remains crooked throughout the ordeal.

NBC News claims that this image of Officer Tou Thao was sourced via 17 years old witness Darnella Frazier from Facebook. This writer cannot recall seeing these two men in any of the videos uploaded online via mainstream media news such as CNN. Please visit this NBC website to view the man with his arms folded in a higher resolution. There are more still scene images publicly available than film footage. The reasons for this anomaly are not clear to this researcher.

Another man, right, who is wearing no mask is seen in this separate source. These novel still images, obtained via Google Images, reinforce the argument that the public may only view selectively sequenced, director cut pictures and videos supplied by news media such as ABC.

These items beside the shield seem to be missing, altered, or placed in different locations in other video stills. You may search Google Images to confirm this. There are multiple reasonable explanations for this anomaly. Video and still images are grainy. They are therefore inconclusive. Furthermore, Thao may have removed these items and shared them with a colleague.

Circuses

These words may provide an avenue of inquiry for those who aim to research the many ways in which virtually all digital video evidence and other similar judicial evidence can be faked.

Body Doubles – Hiring an actor that looks near identical to the identity they assume.

Computer Generated Imagery – Using software to create fake motion picture images.

Deep Fakes – Phony computer images of speaking and moving people that look authentic.

Holograms – A movie projector feeds images into a video recording that makes the person seem real, i.e., projected images portray this ghost image person as a fleshy, alive human.

Green Screen Room – Insertion of a fake background behind one or more actors/crisis actors.

Sequence Edits – Changing the true order of events in a video.

Consider this example of sequence editing. CCTV footage shows two events. Event 1 – Michael punches Adam in the face twice. Event 2 – Adam punches Michael in the face 2 times, to defend himself, to force Michael to cease assaulting him. A video editor can place Event 2 prior to Event 1 and claim that this is the original footage. This fake sequencing portrays Adam as the instigator.

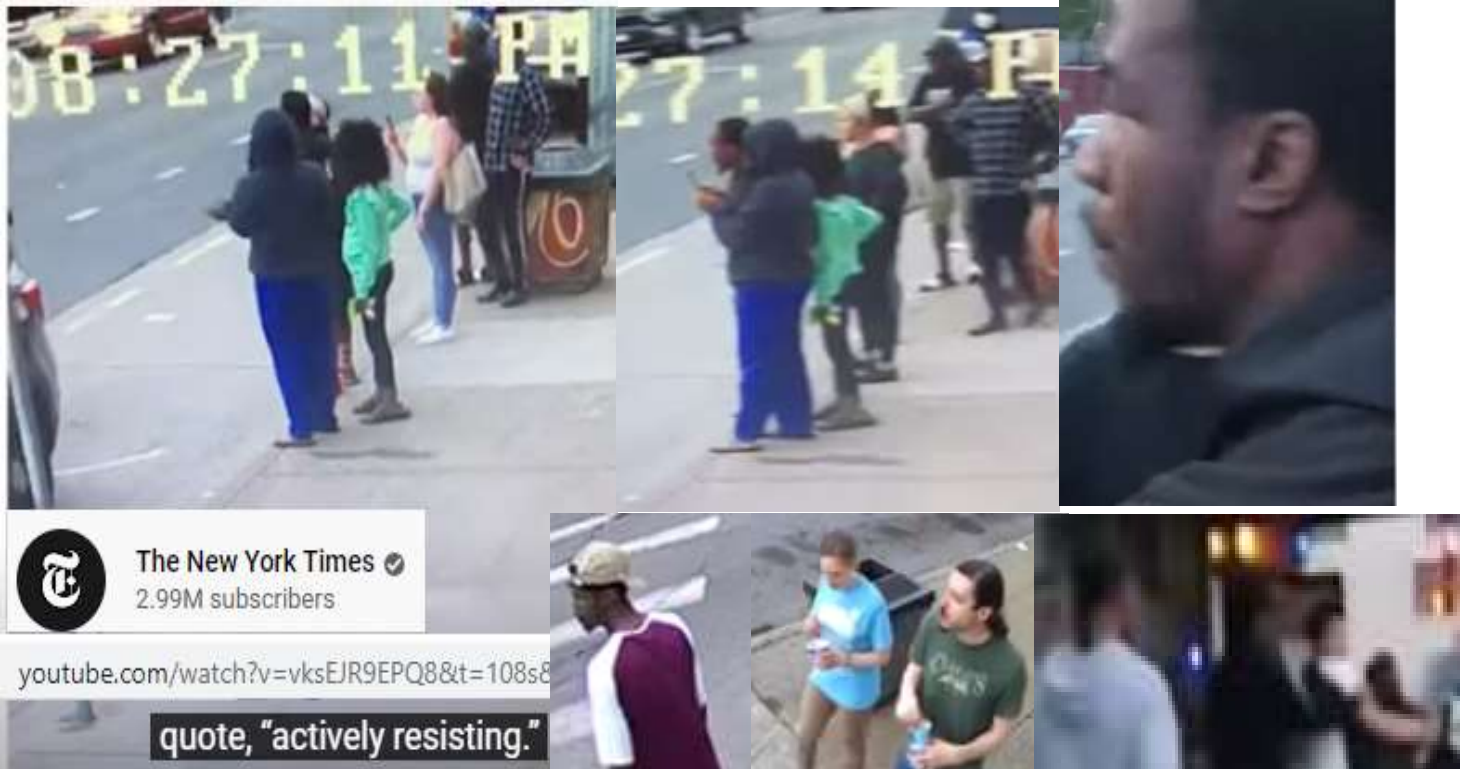

Compartmentalization is a tool that deceives naïve participants into aiding in a crime without knowing. Crisis actors may be hired as witnesses for a budget movie about a brutal arrest. They do not know that the criminals managing this ‘movie’ are plotting to create a fake documentary that they claim is a real-life violent arrest. This covert scheme aims to start nation-wide riots.

Zero

The number of civilians on video who were wearing masks on May 25, 2020 at the George Floyd event. No pedestrians are seen half wearing a non fitted mask, for example, around their neck.

The mask discrepancy between civilians and city-controlled assets, employees, (see page 18) is noteworthy. Please watch this video to view images in a higher resolution. This writer estimates that all 45 or so civilians captured by public video footage are not wearing masks. On and around May 25, 2020, around 95% of pedestrians wore masks on their face or neck (resting) in New York.

Note how the number of people in this shot, which are visible from footage taken from a different angle, is likewise a big fat zero. It is possible that all these people arrived after this footage shown on the left was taken. It is also possible that these people were herded away from their current location by a police officer or another person.

These images capture protests in Minneapolis a few days after George Floyd's death.

What percentage of people were wearing masks in public on or around May 25, 2020 in your neighborhood, and other areas in America that you had visited? What percentage of people are wearing masks in public at the time you are reading this page? Can you find video footage of other persons wearing a mask during the George Floyd event? Does departmental policy and procedure require paramedics to wear face masks? Why are the two police officers wearing distinctly different masks?

The number of minutes of footage that may be missing from news media composites concerning the early stages of the George Floyd event. This video by C-Vine (2020) captures this issue.

The question “Why was George ...entire time” is a popular issue raised among media researchers. They explicitly mention this as a smoking gun that shows how this event was a staged false flag. George Floyd and his companions had around 10 minutes to leave the scene after they were confronted by two Cup Foods employees in their car. This author rejects the smoking gun argument. For example, the owner of the car may have lost their keys on the street. Or whatever.

The second video is short, about 20 seconds long, and comes from a Cup Foods security camera. Judging from the times provided in the probable cause statement and the timecode on the video, it appears to begin about five minutes after the other video ends.

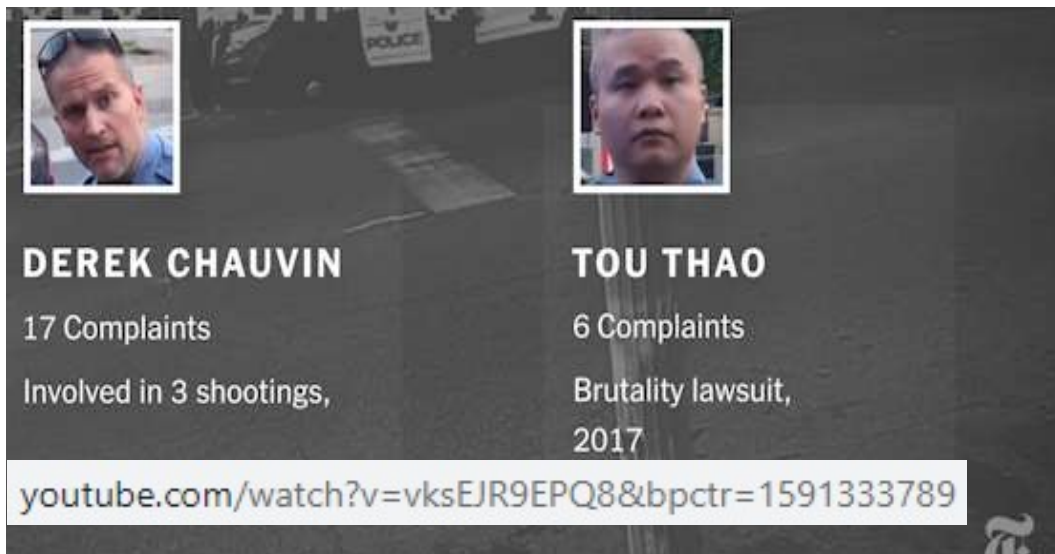

Video footage that shows how George exited vehicle 320 and was next laying on the street has not been made public. It is not clear why this footage has apparently been deliberately concealed from the public domain. This video footage must exist, as Cup Foods CCTV video captured this.

Valentine's Day is now known as the day of the Parkland school massacre. Easter Sunday is now known as the day churches closed to honor the Day of the Dead for COVID-19.

The date shown on the body camera footage publicly issued by the Minneapolis Police Department is May 26, 2020. George died on May 25, 2020. The minutes shown in this image (:12) are consistent with most evidence made available to the public. Cup Foods video camera is supposedly about 20 minutes ahead of time. This anomaly is widely reported by researchers.

What is the reason for this discrepancy in dates? What is Greenwich Mean Time?

The time is 8:12 pm (20:12 hours) in Minneapolis, and the date is May 25, 2020.

What is the corresponding date and time in Greenwich Mean Time?

<https://greenwichmeantime.com/time-zone/usa/minnesota/minneapolis/>

Does the Minneapolis Police Department publish/enforce a service wide policy that requires all police officers to wear body cameras and operate at a uniform date and time zone?

Does this video censorship (redaction) arouse your suspicion in the context of this case?

Does the person in these mug shots, image right and second images below, look age 44 to you?

Numerous media commentators claim that the reference to 0.99, shown left in green, may be a smoking gun that proves that this video footage predates May 25, 2020 (e.g. C-Vine, 2020). This author cannot find retail gas prices (e.g. diesel) priced below USD1 during the past decade.

This display of price '99' may be a computer display error. This 99 price may advertise another product, or it may be another (e.g. higher) number. The images overleaf may aid researchers.

Petrol prices in America are quoted by the gallon in most cases. As at May 25, 2020, retail gasoline prices were around USD 2.13 per gallon for regular octane fuel.

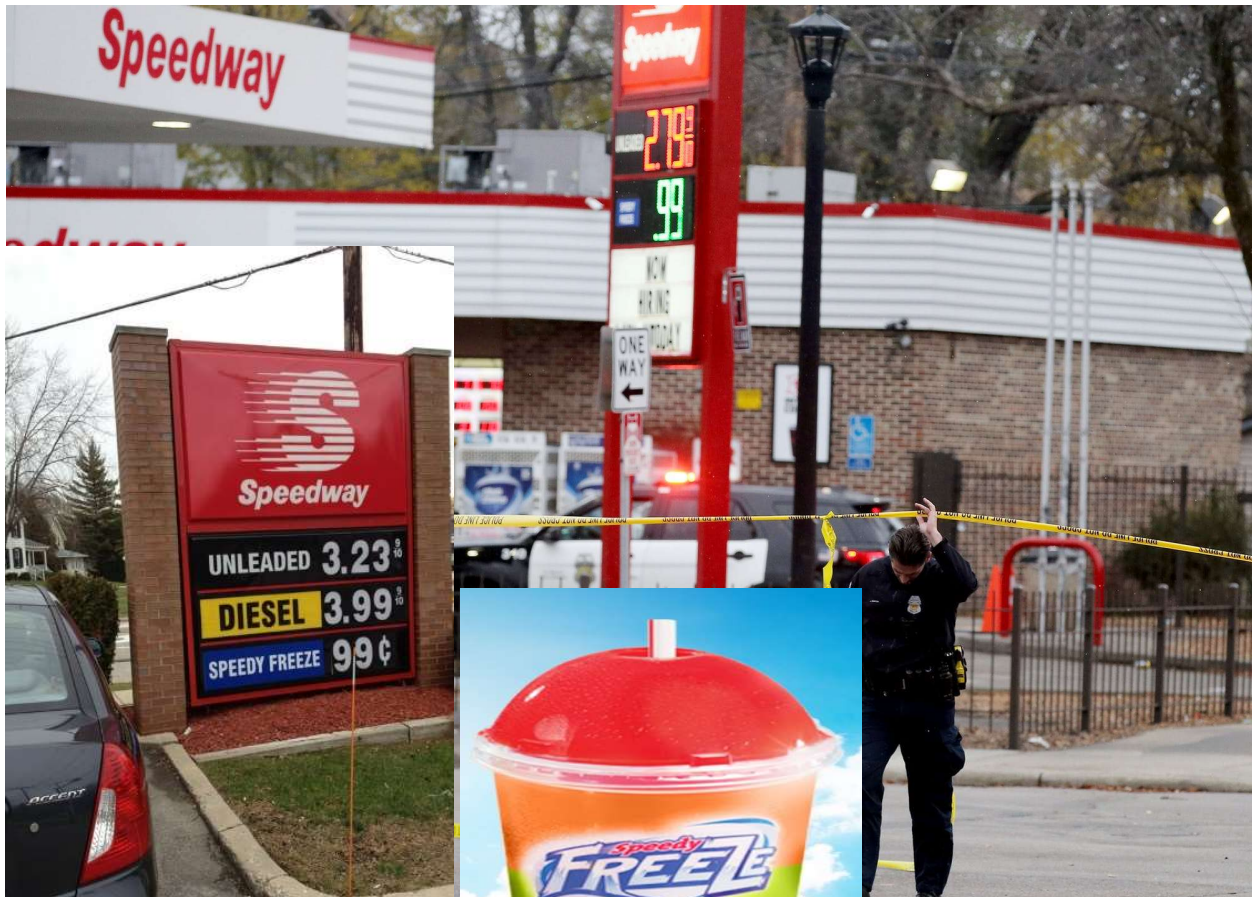

The national average price around May 25, 2020 was USD1.879 for regular gasoline.

This author has no reason to automatically believe that any information shared by three letter agencies such as the Minneapolis Police Department, MPD, and corporate media is accurate or shared in good faith. All such agencies have a history of harboring some rotten eggs. This author does not automatically believe that officer Derek Chauvin, Service ID 1087, has been working for the MPD since 2001. One way for researchers to part confirm this truth is to visit multiple independent library archives that store paper/microfiche copies of newspapers published in 2006. Those based in Minnesota and Minneapolis are obvious choices. Derek Chauvin's name should appear in news stories dated late October 2006 and November/December 2006. He was supposedly involved in the shooting of Wayne Reyes, who died on October 29, 2006.

In the security intelligences world (e.g. CIA, FBI) digital evidence such as the article shown above, are low quality evidence. It is very easy for any web publisher to draft an article in 2020 and place the date '2006' on that story. Of course, all due respects to Wayne Reyes. RIP. Finding a newspaper that names and shows Chauvin in 2006 does not automatically prove that this is the same Chauvin shown in the George Floyd event. If the images seem to be a good match, based on time lapse (aging), it is sufficient to accept this. Checking ear shapes is a universal test.

This author did not find a smoking gun that proves the George Floyd Event is a false flag that fakes few or full facts. He only found a fishy Smith & Wesson five-barrel.

Virtually all false flag arguments cite evidence that is circumstantial or outright false. This book aims to rectify these pervasive anomalies. It centers analysis around objective quantities extracted from primary data evidence direct at their source, such as .gov websites. For what they're worth. Unmasking the five agent assets may hold the key to this felonious enigma.

This writer suspects that George's gentle image may become a top tier icon in America's history. The Big G beams the brightest beacon over a Babylonian brotherhood of crooked klansmen who stubbornly steer the ruling ranks of some of America's constabularies. And maybe most.

This opinionated observation is merely fat gut instinct. A force that guides the ways that this writer selects, edits, sequences, omits, and analyzes material in this book. In good faith, of course.

This books' finale, Annex 5, fields five fresh facts to aid our fellowship to test tools and data in this folio. Take nothing for granted. Please add, delete, or modify this frugal offering.

To your satisfaction.

This volume concludes this author's Deep State free book series. The George Floyd event encapsulates most key themes that are central to this collection. This includes claims about the use of CGI and body doubles to stage watershed false flags. May readers reflect on the claims made in this series to draw their free willed conclusions.

Another number to spot in fake news are those that emphasize '300'. Numbers 3.00, 300, 30 000 and 300 000 are examples. These digits may trademark™ mafia hit jobs orchestrated by the House of Windsor Crime Family and its Committee 300 stooges. You may notice the popularity of this code in stories about war, economic collapse and human made 'natural' disaster fakery.

No. It leaves me more confused than ever. I prefer traditional news formats, like a tabloid paper.	Sorta. The unique style makes for interesting reading. Some facts are curious, such as the observation that only controlled city assets wear masks.	Yes. Absolutely. I need to see quantities to objectively decide what happened. This book repeatedly quantifies key facts.

Research Questions – George Floyd Event

1. This video image shows George Floyd’s associates on May 25, 2020. I have chosen to annex a digital image that shows partial images of their faces to respect their privacy.

These witnesses may be the key to solving enigmas surrounding the George Floyd event.

Who are these people? Do you desire to know the identity of these two people?

What public statements have they offered, if any, concerning the George Floyd event?

Where are these people now – according to reputable sources?

2. Who was in the car behind George Floyd's vehicle. Their video credit may be WES.

Were you aware that this vehicle did not drive away? It did a U-Turn and apparently witnessed more of this event from across the road from where George's vehicle parked.

Dedication

I dedicate this report to the late Captain David Dorn who was killed in the City of St. Louis in Missouri. His life was filled with service to our community and he went to his death striving to protect the community from spiraling into disorder. I also dedicate this to the good people of St. Louis. I look forward to making our city great again!

Summary

I write with a sense of urgency, yet I have a blessed assurance that truth will prevail in the case of the death of Mr. George Perry Floyd at the hands of police officer Derek Chauvin. On May 31, 2020, I released a video message which urged black Americans to “stop being so emotional” and other Americans to “stop feeling guilt-ridden” but, instead, ask questions. That video went viral in the United States and Europe. I also received hundreds of messages from people in Austria, Australia, Czech Republic, Ireland, Germany, Slovakia, South Africa, and Spain who agreed with the premise of the message and began researching the facts of Mr. Floyd’s death. Ordinary Americans and people of goodwill around the world dug deep into internet archives to find information that might explain what happened to Floyd.

Before I present our findings, I will summarize the main points and conclusions of this report. In summary, the evidence suggests that Mr. George Perry Floyd is dead. Mr. Floyd died in 2016 in Texas. However, Mr. Stephen Jesse Jackson is very much alive as is Mr. Derek Chauvin. Overwhelming evidence suggests that Mr. Jackson played the character of Mr. Floyd in the arrest video. However, the person in the arrest video is neither Floyd nor Jackson but rather a digital composite of both men using deep fake technology. Similarly, we theorize that officer Derek Chauvin in the arrest video is also a composite. We conclude that no one in the video is really one person but rather they are all digital composites of two or more real people to form completely new digital persons using deepfake technology.

Today, on June 14, 2020, on behalf of “WE THE PEOPLE,” I present evidence that suggests that Mr. Jackson and other actors participated in a videographic false flag event using deepfake technology to stoke racial tensions between black and white Americans which reinvigorated the flailing radical Black Lives Matter movement. The actions of these actors led to the death of actual civilians and police officers throughout the United States and the world. It is my sincere hope that the FBI will intervene to discover who the players are and hold them accountable for their actions.

Section III: George Floyd's Death

Attorney Timothy D. Japhet represented the real George Floyd and served as his guardian ad litem (GAL) in 2016 before he died in Corpus Christi, Texas. That George Floyd played college football for Texas A&I in Kingsville before the school became part of the Texas A&M system. Attorney Japhet revealed his association with Floyd in a now-deleted Facebook post:

Now is the time to get mad...Now is the time to approach your leaders and ask them how much more before they stand up and fight for us. I have never mentioned anything but facts witnessed with my own eyes. I saw the vacant tents set up around the hospitals for the sick that never came. I watched as businesses closed to a hoax. I saw bodies removed from homes because they were too afraid to go to the hospital because of quarantine. I saw our leaders shred the constitution that elected them.

Now I saw a black man who I played college football against allegedly killed on camera 30 years later...but guess what...they messed up...that's not the same guy. I remember this guy and he died a few years ago right here in Corpus Christi.

I was his lawyer...Dumbasses can't even pick a good fake dead guy.

Back when he played it was Texas A&I, it was the original junior college for kids who couldn't get into the major schools. This guy and Johnny Bailey played together. I play for Abilene Christian University as a walk on. I was not good and didn't last a few cuts each year. My freshman year we played them in Abilene, Johnny Bailey single-handedly beat us on two toss sweeps and a punt return. Sadly, he abruptly passed after a stellar year with the Chicago Bears.

However, the name of the man they are using who died? He died here in Corpus Christi three years ago. He did play for Texas A&I and he did live on the streets here and he did die here. However, he didn't die in Minnesota.

To top it off, I was his Court Appointed Guardian Ad Litem before he passed at Spohn Memorial. ...Before he died me and him talked about that game with Johnny Bailey and Abilene Christian and Texas A&I in 1989.

So what I'm telling you is that the man they claim died in Minneapolis at the hands of the police did not die there...that man died in Corpus Christi, TX in Christus Spohn Memorial ICU with me as his Guardian Ad Litem and he is buried at the paupers cemetery in Flour Bluff. His sister flew down here from Minnesota saying she was going to give him a proper burial, but she never came back officially. Though since then that body could've been removed. Nobody keeps too much of an account of the cemetery anyhow.

So now what are we gonna do about this?¹

Attorney Japhet is a reliable source. In his Facebook post, he provided written testimony of his client-attorney relationship with George Floyd as well as a personal witness to their friendship in college. Japhet's testimony matches with records of the real George Floyd – his youth, life, and death. Japhet's testimony was widely distributed across all social media platforms.² Figure 1 below shows George Floyd as a tight end football player at Texas A&I as posted on Japhet's social media page. We call on Christus Spohn Memorial Hospital to aid the public's investigation of this case by confirming the death of the real George Floyd at their hospital in 2016.

Section IV: George Floyd's Body

As Attorney Japhet suggested, George Floyd's dead body could easier have been moved from the pauper's grave in Flour Bluff, Texas, and relocated to a different cemetery. While this detail is completely speculative, what we know for sure is that the real George Floyd had a tattoo across his chest while the actor who played George Floyd in the arrest video displayed a chest without a tattoo. The real George Floyd's tattoo is visible in a video of him on a pornography website.³ Here is a side by side comparison of Floyd's chest in the arrest video and Floyd's chest as displayed in a film.⁴

Additionally, observers noted that a portion of the arrest video of George Floyd shows him without legs.⁵ In one of the many footages of Floyd's arrest, he appears to have no legs as he is put on a gurney to be taken to Hennepin County Medical Center (see figure 3 for a still frame from that video). It would have been impossible for Floyd to suddenly lose his legs during the arrest altercation. The discrepancy in the absence of legs can be explained by the probable use of a mannequin during a certain portion of the arrest video production. In figure 2, Kris Wyrobek CEO of 7-Sigma, a mannequin manufacturing company, poses with a mannequin produced by their company for disaster training purposes. 7-Sigma has confirmed that they will leave Minneapolis after their facility was burned down during city riots. It is quite possible that those scenes of Floyd without legs included the use of a mannequin produced by 7-Sigma. Mr. Wyrobek should be questioned about his possible involvement in this case.

Section V: George Floyd's Autopsy

George Floyd's autopsy determined that the cause of death was a homicide. The report stated that he experienced a cardiopulmonary arrest while being restrained by the law enforcement officer(s). The autopsy also showed intoxication, fentanyl, and recent methamphetamine use. While we do not doubt the science of the medical examiner, we do question whose body was examined and request that photographic evidence of that body be released to the public. It is possible that a different corpse was presented for this autopsy since the real George Floyd died in 2016.

Another discrepancy in the autopsy report is the Minnesota address where George Floyd supposedly lived. His address is listed as 3502 Glenhurst Ave St Louis Park, MN, 55416 yet there is no evidence that anyone named George Floyd ever resided at this address. The address shows a rental property listing attributed to Mr. Arsenio Jovannis Thunstrom who is the CEO of Conga Corporation registered at 501 E Hennepin Avenue Minneapolis, MN, 55414. The rental properties with these numbers (3500-3502) are all listed in Mr. Thunstrom's name. There is no evidence that George Floyd ever left Texas to begin a new life in Minnesota. Floyd's last publicly listed address is [REDACTED] Houston, TX, 77004. Moreover, there is no evidence that any members of the Floyd family live in Minnesota.⁶

Floyd's autopsy lists the time of death at 9:25 PM on May 25, 2020 whereas he was picked up during the daytime. So many questions arise from the observation of this time discrepancy. Here are a few: what transpired between the morning hours and 9:25 PM when Floyd officially died? What happened to Floyd inside the ambulance? Who conducted this first autopsy and what time did this medical examiner receive the body? The resolution to this case may very well lie in the answers to these questions.

Manner of death classification is a statutory function of the medical examiner, as part of death certification for purposes of vital statistics and public health. Manner of death is not a legal determination of culpability or intent, and should not be used to usurp the judicial process. Section VI: George Floyd's Arrest

George Floyd, the actor, was supposedly arrested on May 25, 2020, after presenting a fake $20 bill. Based on this dissection by graphic artist *John, Stephen Jackson and George Floyd are not the same person, they are two different people. Yet John's research leaves open the possibility that Stephen Jackson played the role of George Floyd in the deepfake video of his arrest based on two factors – physiognomy and body art.

This graphic dissection depicts the differences in the features of Floyd and Jackson. Jackson has a neck tattoo; Floyd has a chest tattoo that is not pictured here. The arrest video composite could have worked this way: the head of Floyd digitally imposed on the body of Jackson. This is a hypothesis which awaits further investigation. Nonetheless, these two men resemble each other and Stephen Jackson has repeatedly referred to George Floyd as his twin in media interviews about Floyd's death.⁷ The technology required to further dissect the moving images in the arrest video are not readily available. Hence, we urge the FBI to use the blueprint displayed in figure 8 as a starting point for their investigation. Our educated guess of the situation is that deepfake technology was used to superimpose Floyd's face unto Jackson's face to create a fabricated moving image of a person who is neither Floyd nor Jackson. This newly created entity operates seamlessly as one unit in the video of Floyd's arrest and for the sake of this report can be referred to as Mr. George-Stephen Floyd-Jackson.

Deepfakes are a growing and worrisome trend with serious implications for civic and political life. According to a Forbes news article by Rob Toews published on May 25, 2020 (the same day Floyd was arrested and died), deepfake is "an important and dangerous new phenomenon in AI."⁸ Toews further describes deepfake technology as something anyone can do:

Deepfake technology enables anyone with a computer and an Internet connection to create realistic-looking photos and videos of people saying and doing things that they did not actually say or do. A combination of the phrases "deep learning" and "fake", deepfakes first emerged on the Internet in late 2017, powered by an innovative new deep learning method known as generative adversarial networks (GANs).⁹

Based on the timing of this article which coincides with the alleged date of Floyd's death, Stephen Jackson needs to be questioned about his role in the deepfake video released on May 25, 2020.

The ambiance of the arrest has also sparked speculation about what happened to George Floyd. Minnesota's Governor Tim Walz issued a stay-at-home order for the state on March 15, 2020; an order that set into motion the requirement for mandatory face coverings for private citizens and public officials. In the arrest video date stamped for May 25, 2020, no one seems to be adhering to these COVID-19 guidelines. No one is wearing face-covering of any kind – not the police, not George Floyd, nor the passersby on the sidewalk. This simple fact is enough to question the timeline of the shooting, editing, and release of this arrest video production.

Questions continue to swirl about officer Chauvin who supposedly murdered George Floyd by kneeling on his neck for 8 minutes and 46 seconds. Most citizen observers aren't convinced that the Derek Chauvin in the booking photo, is the same person kneeling on George Floyd's neck in the arrest video. Online commentary on this particular discrepancy has been rampant with @ShmitcoinJebus stating, "Don't trust your own eyes. Same guys, both pics, because we say so."¹⁰

Citizen investigators have suggested that the "officer Chauvin" who appears in the arrest video bears a striking resemblance to the actor and comedian Benjamin Ray Bailey who features in Cash Cab.¹¹

However, there is a dispute about the veracity of the claim that Benjamin Bailey is the cop who appears in the arrest video. Yaacov Apelbaum, an expert in analytics and information warfare, conducted video analysis comparing images of Derek Chauvin and Benjamin Ray Bailey. Apelbaum found that the person of interest identified as Derek Chauvin in the police booking images matched within 99% certainty the image of the uniformed police officer seen in the video kneeling on George Floyd.¹² As with the composite character Floyd-Jackson, it is possible that the officer in the arrest is also a composite of Chauvin-Bailey. The Chauvin in the arrest video may have been digitally altered to combine features from both Chauvin and Bailey.

Nevertheless, police officer Derek Chauvin remains a secondary character in this story as the focus remains on whether or not George Floyd was killed on camera. Both Derek Chauvin and Benjamin Bailey should be questioned about their knowledge and/or involvement in this case.

On a speculative note, there are many reasons why this false flag event was conducted at this time. According to a CNN article by Veronica Stracqualursi on June 5, 2020, several Republican county chairs questioned the timing and release of the deepfake video. Bexar County Republican Chairwoman Cynthia Brehm shared on Facebook that Floyd's death was a “staged event.” Her now-deleted Facebook post read in part: “I think there is at the very least the “possibility,” that this was a filmed public execution of a black man by a white cop, with the purpose of creating racial tensions,” “It’s to get Trump.”¹³ Regardless of the motive for the release of the arrest video, the American people are not satisfied with the mainstream media narrative of the events and have chosen to do their own research.

Section VII: George Floyd’s Previous Employment

Media reports revealed that George Floyd supposedly worked at El Nuevo Rodeo club alongside former officer Derek Chauvin for seventeen years. However, as previously stated in section three of this report, the real George Floyd died in 2016 and never established a life in Minnesota. El Nuevo Rodeo club may have been introduced into the narrative for completely different reasons. One of the reasons why El Nuevo Rodeo club might have been included in this case is that the club is implicated in money laundering. Mainstream media repeatedly interviewed Maya Santamaria and identified her as the former owner of the club.¹⁴ However, public records reveal that she is not affiliated with El Nuevo Rodeo club ownership at all. Rather, Omar Investments Inc. had owned El Nuevo Rodeo Cantina and night club since 1996. The principal of Omar Investments Inc. is Muna Haj Sabri whose close relative, Basim Sabri, was captured by the FBI in a sting operation.¹⁵ While it is plausible that officer Derek Chauvin worked at El Neuvo Rodeo, it is highly unlikely that George Floyd ever worked there. It appears the characters in this production are confused by their own plot and seem to go back and forth on whether Chauvin and Floyd knew each other, and whether they had a history of conflict.¹⁶ The Sabris are people of interest and should be questioned about what they know regarding the use of deepfake technology.

Section VIII: George Floyd's 2nd Grade Teacher

Perhaps the most shocking mistake of the mainstream media has been the lack of vetting of the character playing George Floyd's second-grade teacher. Laura Isensee of Houston Public Media, an affiliate of NPR and PBS, conducted an interview on June 9, 2020, with Floyd's so-called second-grade teacher. The teacher states that her name is Waynel Sexton and she remembers an 8-year old boy who was inspired by the work and legacy of Thurgood Marshall. Sexton claims to have taught at Frederick Douglass Elementary in Third Ward. She claimed to have a framed copy of Floyd's work where he dreamed of becoming a judge and wrote the following about it:

Future famous American. When I grow up, I want to be a Supreme Court Judge. When people say, 'Your Honor, he did rob the bank.' I will say, 'Be seated' and if he doesn't, I will tell the guards to take him out and I will beat my hammer on the desk and everybody will be quiet.¹⁷

Sexton was interviewed by other media outlets where she repeated the same story, yet no one bothered to research her claims of being a schoolteacher or whether she is even a real person. A search into public records reveals that there is no one named Waynel Sexton and there is no evidence that this person taught grade school anywhere. Citizen investigators have pointed out that the name ~~Waynel Sexton~~ is short for "Aynel Sex" or "Anal Sex" if you remove and replace some letters. It would be totally funny if it were not completely ludicrous that many people around the country have taken this woman's testimony as an accurate description of Floyd. This woman needs to be investigated and questioned about her participation in this false flag event. She just might have knowledge of the use of deepfake technology to deceive the American people. Citizen investigators have identified her as a key eyewitness in other false flag events.¹⁸

Section IX: George Floyd's GoFundMe Fundraisers

Soon after his death on May 25, 2020, several GoFundMe fundraisers were set up for George Floyd and his daughter. The fundraiser for his daughter raised about $2.1 million and it lists Stewart Trial Attorneys as the person of contact along with Roxie Washington, the mother of Floyd's child.¹⁹ According to the fundraiser, Floyd's daughter is named Gianna Floyd. Incidentally, she shares the same name as late Kobe Bryant's late daughter Gianna Bryant. The official George Floyd memorial GoFundMe has raised $14 million and is organized by Floyd's brother, Philonise Floyd.²⁰ Floyd's younger sister Bridgett Floyd also launched a GoFundMe campaign to cover travel expenses – this fundraiser has now been deactivated.²¹ When asked about the allocation of resources raised from the official GoFundMe which President Obama shared to his social media followers,²² the communication manager from the law firm that set up the fund, Adner Marcelin of Ben Crump Law, confirmed to Business Insider:

Our office is contingency fee based so fees for our legal services derive for any recovery obtained for the family (i.e. – the civil law suit). The funds raised here were transferred to Mr. Floyd's brother, as stated clearly in the fundraiser. They will be distributed according to his family's wishes.²³

The family lawyer Ben Crump has become a nationally recognized civil rights attorney since he represented Trayvon Martin's family in 2012. He is also currently representing Ahmaud Arbery, Breonna Taylor, and now George Floyd. Mr. Crump ought to be questioned about his involvement with this and other false flag events.

The radical group Black Lives Matter (BLM) also used the occasion of Floyd's death to raise funds for their cause. BTA, a Korean-Pop music group helped BLM raise $1 million.²⁴ BLM does not conduct fundraising activities on their own, they work with ActBlue Charities, "a fundraising group that bankrolls Democratic and progressive political efforts across the country."²⁵ ActBlue has refused to disclose how their recently raised funds have been spent.

Conclusion

The death of George Floyd in such a gruesome manner as viewed on camera sent shock waves around the world. As quickly as the hysteria arose, there also arose speculation that the moving images had been digitally edited, and that George Floyd was still alive. The many inconsistencies in the arrest video of George Floyd led many to question the entire production and call for more investigation. I claimed that what we watched was not real and challenged America to prove to me that Floyd was dead. After pouring over evidence gathered from myriad of sources, we conclude that George Floyd died years ago yet his likeness has been used in a digital composite to create a completely distinct entity who is neither Floyd nor Jackson. In fact, no one in the arrest video is really one person. They are all composites of two or more real people.

Given the evidence outlined in this report, several questions come to mind. Could we have witnessed the first use of deepfake technology as a tool of propaganda on American citizens? What implication does deepfake technology have for other aspects of American civic and political life? Is it possible to sustain the public life of a dead private citizen or public official by using deepfake technology? Where else has this technology been undetected in its use? The answers to these questions have serious implications for the future of our democratic republic.

Based on the evidence, we can deduce that the arrest video of George Floyd, the characters, date of production, and death have all been fabricated. As a recap, here are the major players as outlined in this report:

Stephen Jackson as Floyd-Jackson composite Derek Chauvin as Bailey-Chauvin composite Waynel Sexton as second-grade teacher

Other people/places/points of interest not investigated in this report include:

Minneapolis Police Department/ three other arresting officers who are also composites
The Floyd family – Philonise and Bridgett; Roxie Washington
Ben Crump Law
ActBlue Charities

I commend the many citizen investigators who helped me with this report. They worked hard using available public records and their great talents to piece together a puzzle that has puzzled Americans for the past three weeks. We urge President Trump to open an investigation into these claims and to help resolve the issue of deepfake technology once and for all. Our very democratic republic depends on getting a resolution to this case.

Charles Saxe-Coburg & Gotha – Body Double, Green Screen Room fake video combination

The handlers of Charles's body double executed the infamous Green Screen scheme. Green garden images are easier to blend into Green Screen Room computer generated videos. The fake backdrop is a video recording of a real garden that is not physically located behind this actor.

This video was recorded around 19 days prior. The number of views is about 6% of total subscribers. This channel has likely purchased around 500,000 fake subscribers from subscriber warehouse agencies, such as those that operate inside China and charge $1 per fake subscriber.

Charles Saxe-Coburg & Gotha body double

Most commentators are not fooled by this execution of the Green Screen scheme. This double's eyes are a different color to Charles Gotha. He is noticeably fatter and is wearing what numerous commentators colloquially refer to as a 'cheap Oxfam suit'. His voice, mannerisms, mouth, nose, hairline, and other features are noticeable different to Charles Coburg. Please check yourself.

In this YouTube version, Sky News have strategically neutralized the comments section. The number of thumbs down is indicative of the many people who are not fooled by this charade and are peeved that they are denied the opportunity to place a comment below this fake video.

This video supposedly executes an exclusive interview with media minion Sky News. The House of Windsor Crime Family are being slowly dismantled to avoid shocking Britain's populace. Less than 2% of viewers bothered to engage with this video via a thumbs up or thumbs down vote.
